“Bill Gates stated plans are undoubtedly worrisome. The patent for a microchip , code number WO/2020/060606, was registered on March 26, 2020. The patent process was carried out on behalf of MICROSOFT TECHNOLOGY LICENSING, LLC, headed by Gates, as early as June 20, 2019. On April 22, 2020, the patent received international status. The news about the patent caused uproar, given that it was directed at using the human body as a method of payment attached to a digital currency.

Essentially, a chip would be implanted into the body as a supervisory element to ensure that the characteristics of daily activity are consistent. If the conditions are met, the person receives certain monetary bonuses. It goes without saying that the conditions are dictated by those who own the patent. If you don't want to be chipped, you wouldn't have to, at least at first, it would simply be promoted as a measure of convenience... However, many think that this technology could potentially be used to control human emotions and enforce obedience.”
